

WESTERLY

George E. Leonard, of 15 Stanton street, while duck hunting at Charles-town pond, walked out on the thin ice to get a duck which he had killed. When a short distance from shore the ice crumbled causing him to fall. In reaching out to save himself his right hand came in contact with oyster shells on a rock, inflicting ugly gashes in the palm and fingers. He was alone at the time and after dressing the wounds as best he could he walked to Westerly where he received medical attention.

Christmas packages for the ex-service men of the world who are at the Parker Hill hospital, Boston, and at the Chelsea Naval hospital, by reason of disabilities sustained in line of duty, will be collected in Westerly by the local chapter of the Red Cross. The sponsors of the project claim that the appeal for small Christmas packages to send disabled soldiers and sailors should meet with success for all can afford to give a little for the comfort of the men who risked their all during the war. The packages are to be small ones, containing tobacco, cigarettes, fruit, etc., and should be left with Miss Lucy Crowley at the Red Cross rooms on High street. When all the packages have been received they will be packed in large boxes and sent to the hospitals in Boston. It is hoped that the packages will be brought in early and that many will respond to the appeal.
